Case Summary

The name Dodier Knoll is proposed for a 940-foot-elevation unnamed hill on private property in the Town of Madison, Carroll County, New Hampshire. The feature is reported by the proponent to be family-owned and is described as a rounded knoll overlooking nearby mountain ranges and lakes. The proponent also stated that the feature “is referred to by the locals as a knoll, but has no official name.”

The proponent explained that the name would commemorate Raymond Ralph Dodier Sr. (1947-2011) “to honor [their] deceased loved one with a permanent piece of the community,” and added:

All other prominent features in the immediate area have designations, the location is unique & should also have a designation like the other hills & mountains surrounding it. It will help with locals giving directions.

The proponent also wrote:

Raymond R. Dodier Sr. was well known in Carroll County. He had one of the largest towing & repair companies at one time in the Greater Ossipee Area. He was a stark member of our community & did a lot for people in his career both in automotive & during his time as a volunteer fire fighter.

An obituary provided with the proposal lists Mr. Dodier's residence in Sanbornville, his business in Carroll County, and his service as a volunteer firefighter.

At the time of the proposal's inclusion on the Review List, no documentation of local support or endorsements had been received.
