[Town/City], NEW HAMPSHIRE – March is Flood Safety Awareness Month in New Hampshire. Residents are urged to take precautions now to protect themselves and their homes and businesses from future flood events.

Flooding is the most common and costly type of disaster in New Hampshire. Spring is typically when flooding is most expected, but as many New Hampshire residents have experienced first-hand, flooding can occur any time of the year. Knowing the flood hazards that affect your community is the first step in understanding your flood risk. Now is the time for individuals, families, and business owners to learn about their risk from flooding and to take steps to protect themselves, their families, and their property in the event of a flood.
